

1. Circle the correct answer.

- 1) Why does the author refer to brain as the 'control centre'?
 - a) Because it is at the centre of the body.
 - b) Because the body controls it.
 - c) Because it controls the body.
 - d) Because it works the hardest.

- 2) What did scientist learn during the First World War.
 - a) They learnt how to memorise maps for war.
 - b) They learnt the soldiers' functions by studying their brains.
 - c) They learnt about the brain from soldiers with brain injuries.
 - d) They learnt how brain injuries occur.

- 3) According to Paragraph 3, what can our brains do with bits of information?
 - a) Take them in, change them and store them
 - b) Make them up, store them and change them
 - c) Store them, retrieve them and change them
 - d) Take them, store them and retrieve them

- 4) Which sentence is NOT supported by the text?
 - a) Injured brains can have trouble with short-term or long-term memory.
 - b) Injured brains more often have problems with short-term memory.
 - c) If short-term memory is affected, long-term memory will also be affected.
 - d) If long-term memory is affected, short-term memory will also be affected.